College Public Policy tops Total Politics list

1st: Warwick Smith

9th: Robbie MacDuff

Total Politics magazine's Top 100 Public Affairs Professionals published today was headed by College Public Policy's Managing Partner Warwick Smith, with Partner Robbie MacDuff in ninth place.

Commenting on the publication of the Top 100 list, Warwick Smith said:

"I'm obviously delighted to be at the top of such a prestigious list, the more so when it was chosen by a panel of industry leaders. Compliments are all the sweeter when they come from your own peer group."

"But it's even more pleasing that there are two of us in the top 10—a superlative performance by any standards. When we established College Public Policy three years ago, we said that the objective was to bring together a cohesive team of the best people in the business. We're doing that, with more to come, and it's great to see that our peer group recognises it."
